Millage increase lobbied by PRCC president while vo-tech future in question

BY D.C. HARVILL

While the Pearl River Community College Board of Trustees is considering whether or not operation of the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center will be turned over to the Hancock School District, a bill being considered by state lawmakers may increase the amount of taxes earmarked for support of junior colleges.

Bill 2145, described by State Representative J.P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis as "controversial," passed before the House of Representatives Friday after it had been amended numerous times.

"It had 19 or 20 amendments attached to it, so it was a very controversial bill," Compretta said.

According to Compretta, the bill is intended to insure that areas served by junior colleges provide a fair share of their funding.

Although the bill already has passed before the Senate, it will return to them for another vote since the House's amended version is different from the Senate's version.

If the Senate does not accept the amended version, the bill will go to a committee, consisting of House and Senate members, to be reworked.

The original Senate version of the bill called for a mandatory increase in each county's college support from 3.39 mills to four mills, two mills for support and two mills for maintenance and expansion.

The amended House version calls for each county to raise their contribution to 3.39 mills, which would not raise Hancock County's contribution, Compretta said.

"When the bill comes back to the Senate, I will have an opportunity to vote on it again, and like many other Hancock County residents I am concerned about the future of the Vo-Tech Center," State Senator Gene Taylor said Saturday.

PRCC President Dr. Ted Alexander was in Jackson most of the week lobbying for the bill's passage, Compretta said.

The bill will have to be approved before April 2, the last day of the 90-day legislative session, Compretta said.

Alexander announced several weeks ago that the college must reduce the amount of money it spends on vocational education at the high school level.

One proposal being considered calls for the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center to be turned over to the local school district.

Figures released by the college indicate that the County supplies $186,000 in ad valorem taxes for the support of the college.

Figures compiled by the school district from records in the County Courthouse show the total amount paid to PRCC by the county is $695,000.

That figure includes funds for maintenance and support; repayment of a loan for repair, enlargement and improvement at the college and maintenance of the vocational center. It also includes revenue generated by the center and state and federal reimbursements to the college for Hancock County students.

Sparked by the possibility that the center may be closed if the college pulls out, Hancock

Army to be "taken to task" for Ammo Plant closure plan

BY D.C. HARVILL

Keeping the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant at Stennis Space Center open is the number one priority for Mississippi's congressional delegates in Washington, according to U.S. Representative Larkin Smith.

After a private meeting Friday with officials of Mason Chamberlain, the company that operates the plant under contract, Smith announced that a congressional investigation of the Army's plan to close the plant will begin next week.

The Government Operations Committee, of which Smith is a member, is conducting the investigation. The GOC is the House of Representatives' investigative body.

Members of the GOC will review the facility and the Army's plans with members of the General Accounting Office next week, the congressman said.

Smith said he has received assurances from Committee Chairman John Coyer Jr. of Michigan and Vice Chairman Frank Horton of New York that the matter will be investigated fully, with "an eye on a hearing later this year."

The Army announced in December that it intends to phase out operation of the plant beginning in 1990, culminating in total shutdown by 1992.

The plant, built at a cost of $662 million, manufactures 155 millimeter projectiles for the Army and Marine Corps. It is the first ammunition plant built in the United States since World War Two.

The facility is also the only plant that manufactures projectiles from start to finish at the same place and is the most tech-

Courrege sentencing scheduled April 12

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Former Hancock County Supervisor Bert Courrege charged in the FBI's investigation of county corruption pled guilty to one count of mail fraud Friday in U.S. District Court in Jackson.

Courrege is scheduled to be sentenced by U.S. District Judge William Barbour Jr. at 1:30 p.m., April 12.

The former supervisor who lost his bid for re-election in August 1987, faces a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

Courrege had turned himself in to authorities when questioned about the $40 kick-back.

On Saturday morning Courrege said, "When I was questioned by the FBI, I asked if there was a problem with the $40 acceptance. I told them I received it and I waived indictment."

A one count information charges Courrege with accepting a $40 kick-back involving the purchase of weed killer from Davis Chemical Company of Hattiesburg.

An FBI 'Operation Pretense' investigation in Mississippi has resulted in the arrest of 57 supervisors in 26 counties. Ten salesmen and one county road foreman have also been charged.

Six supervisors have been convicted by a jury and one has been acquitted.

Charges were filed against four of the five Hancock County Supervisors who were serving during the 'Operation Pretense' investigation in the state.

Former Supervisors Sam Perniciaro and Roger Dale Ladner, who were re-elected, both entered guilty pleas to charges arising from 'Operation Pretense' and are now serving sentences.

James N. Travirca, who lost his bid for re-election, was also indicted in the investigation, pled guilty and now awaits a sentencing date.

DA house cleaning causes staff changes

Newly appointed District Attorney Joseph Meadows' first official action took place against members of the DA's office instead of in the courtroom.

Assistant District Attorney Harold Grissom, chief prosecutor under former District Attorney Glenn Cannon, was fired Friday.

Assistant District Attorney Eddy Parsons resigned Thursday, followed by resignation of assistant Darryl Roberts on Friday.

Meadows was appointed by Governor Ray Mabus Tuesday to serve as an interim replacement for Cannon.

Cannon resigned March 3 after pleading guilty to charges of bankruptcy fraud.

"I decided I'm going to go in a different direction," Meadows said. "I'm going with a different and fresh approach. This has nothing to do with their ability."

Meadows said he consulted judges, court officials and attorneys to help determine who should remain on his staff.

Grissom said he refused to resign when asked to do so by Meadows and was fired.

Grissom claims that Circuit Court Judges James Thomas and Kosta Vlahos asked the new DA to fire the assistants.

Thomas he had not spoken with Meadows about who he should or should not keep.

Vlahos confirmed that he had met with Meadows but declined to discuss the matter.

Two assistants who served under Cannon, DeWitt Allred and Ron Feder have been asked to remain with the District Attorney's staff.

Meadows is expected to appoint three new assistants Monday.

Slot machines seized at VFW Post 4804

Slot machines were seized by investigators from the state attorney general's office and the Mississippi Highway Patrol this week at a VFW hall.

The machines were discovered Tuesday at VFW Post 4804 on Lower Bay Road when officers were investigating a complaint from someone who identified himself as a member of the post.

Post Commander Ray Prentice of Herron Bay Estates said he played the four electronic machines in the post hall about a week ago.

"We were having a hard time financially, and I was just trying to save our post," he said.

No arrests were made in the case and a spokesman with the attorney general's office said none are expected.

Included in the seizure were $250 in nickels and quarters that were in the machines.

Prentice placed the value of the quarter machines at $2,000 each and the nickel machines at $1,000.

Prentice also said he guessed someone was not happy about his being reelected as post commander this week.

One avenue being considered by those opposing the move is having the State Legislature assign Hancock County to another Junior College district.

Soil Conservation Service to host Wildlife Seminar

Do you enjoy having birds and other wildlife around your home? Many people do. We enjoy the beauty, songs and various activities of birds. And birds eat many insects and pests as well as weed seeds we find irritating and undesirable.

Making your property more attractive to wildlife is easier than you probably think. All wildlife requires four basic elements to survive: food, water, cover and areas in which to reproduce and raise their young. The wider variety of these elements provided, the greater number of birds and other animals attracted to your property.

Trees, shrubs, and plants supply the majority of these elements, food, cover and reproductive areas. The Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District is sponsoring a Wildlife Seminar to inform homeowners about which species to plant to attract wildlife.

The seminar will be held March 14 at the Bay St. Louis Public Library at 7 p.m.

For more information, call the Soil Conservation Service office, 255-3225.

Shutting down the plant will cost $50 million, and another $13 million will be required to maintain the facility after closure, according to a government estimate.

Approximately 1,700 people from south Mississippi and Louisiana are employed at the plant.

"The Army has yet to offer an understandable rationale for pulling out," Smith said. "It seems like a waste of the taxpayer's money."

When the shutdown was announced, an Army spokesman said a new projectile was being used that could not be manufactured at the Mississipi pi facility was one reason for the shutdown.

"They originally told us the other projectile couldn't be manufactured at the facility, but that's not true; it can be converted more cheaply than it would cost to build a new facility," Smith said.

Smith said the Army will be taken to task for spending all that money then trying to close the plant.

Side Street Crossings

By Dena Bisnette

The name Salman Rushdie probably doesn't mean much to Gulf Coast residents, and if it does, it's not likely to be remembered very long.

Like many people who find their way into newspapers and broadcasts and then fade from view, Rushdie isn't local but the controversy about him is an interesting diversion from tasks like shopping and balancing checkbooks. Talking about him beats talking about the weather and makes the conversation sound more intellectual.

The Ayatollah Khomeini wants Rushdie killed because he wrote a book called "The Satanic Verses," which goes against the Iranian leader's religious grain. That kind of controversy is guaranteed to put the book on the best seller list.

Rushdie will be popular for a while, just like anybody whose music was banned in Boston. His book resembles any movie so controversial, that some theatres refuse to show it, like "Mississippi Burning," which has met with the disapproval of every Mississippian I know who has seen it, but has sure sold a lot of tickets.

Let's face it, getting in trouble is the world's best publicity stunt. I'm not trying to be disrespectful but thinking of it strictly from a publicity angle, controversy sells. Take somebody like Elvis Presley, for instance; he got into the ultimate trouble—he died. But, look at all the clippings reporting that stores sold out of his albums.

Now, I have a few problems with a world where people are so starved for excitement that controversy, which is meant to be a method of instigating constructive change, is reduced to a mere publicity stunt.

What would have happened had the Civil Rights Movement been considered a publicity stunt by minorities and women? I'd probably be writing household hints in this column, that's what, and I certainly wouldn't be spending money on graduate school if I felt nobody would hire a woman with a higher degree.

What scares me most is that we seem to be headed in a direction that makes controversy—well, noncontroversial, a way of getting a free push from the media for a product or a personality.

A few people are writing editorials about the real controversy in the Rushdie case—freedom of speech, which is something we haven't paid much attention to in this country during the last few years.

Thank God and the fellows who wrote the First Amendment, we haven't needed to worry much about it.

The topic turns up now and then. Every once in a while, somebody wants to ban a book from a school library or put warning labels on rock albums.

We don't really examine freedom of speech even in those cases. The people who feel that "Cinderella" has sexist overtones or that Rod Stewart promotes unrestricted sex in his music are trying to keep this stuff out of specific places and the hands of specific people, not to keep anyone from producing the stuff.

Pornography, of course, is an exception, but other than that, we aren't fighting about these individuals' rights to write what they want to write.

The content of their writing is up to them, not to an ayatollah's standards.

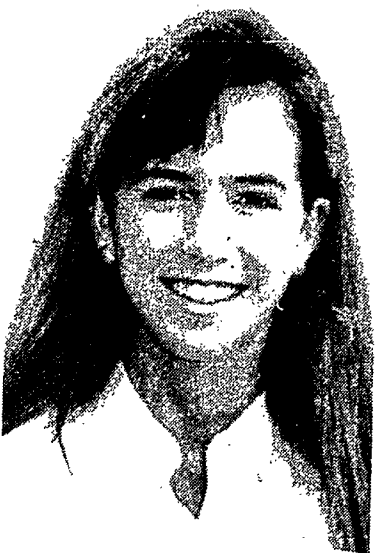

When I write, I have to worry about whether it's accurate, fair to those involved and within certain legal limits that keep me from using my work to hurt people or interfering with law enforcement investigations. I do not have to worry about getting a death sentence from it.

Mr. Rushdie, if you succeed in hiding long enough to stay alive, come to the United States. It may not be any safer for you, because you'll have to take your chances with the lunatics, thieves, traffic accidents and other problems that all countries are plagued with these days.

But you can write whatever you want to write here, and people will defend your right to do it whether or not they agree with the content of your books.

Mrs. Thomas announced that Friendship Oak Chapter won the following awards at the State DAR convention in February: Gold Honor Roll; First Place in DAR Membership Commission; Special Recognition on National Defense Reports; a check for $10 for largest increase in new members; and Tricolor with a Star for Outstanding Yearbook.

Mrs. Frances Wilson presented a program on the music of Revolutionary times composer William Billings, and Biloxi attorney Theresa D. McLaughlin gave background information on Billings.

Mrs. McLaughlin observed that this prolific composer was a tanner by trade who had lost one eye and one leg, and who had the reputation for being a rogue who cared little for what others thought. However, he lived to compose, and his music was very conventional and many of his songs were adopted by the patriots.

Mrs. Wilson noted that Billings wrote religious music, contemporary music of Revolutionary times, and music which would be good today. Her program included taped recordings by modern artists of Billings' "Chester," which was taken up by the Minute Men; and "Lamentations Over Boston," an anthem.

Litter problems appear to increase, needs addressing

No matter how many editorials we write about litter, someone is still not getting the message. A short drive down US-90, or any street or road, will confirm this. Somebody is still throwing trash on our highways and roadsides. It appears in the most obvious of places, such as the sides of the county's more travelled highways, and less expected spots, including the woods by the sides of country roads that haven't even been blacktopped yet.

Somebody is not reading these editorials, but that isn't what's most important. What's most important is that someone still doesn't care about their own environment.

Is he or she blissfully ignorant that litter creates a bad image for Hancock County and anywhere else it exists? Is he or she ignorant that trash clogs our drainage system and waterways, creates a danger for birds and animals who might swallow it or get caught in it, and takes years to decay if left alone?

If they aren't ignorant, why are they still throwing their garbage on the ground in plain sight of everyone, rather than properly disposing of it?

There is an old saying, "Ignorance is no excuse for failure to follow the law," and littering is against the law.

While we're on the subject of ignorance, let's talk about apathy too. While some residents of the community are working hard to reduce our litter problem, others are apathetic to it, and what is apathy, after all, but a type of feigned ignorance?

Apparently, we'll have to put a dent in the ignorance problem before our roadsides will be litter-free.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is encouraging when you see folks concerned about the amount of litter on our streets.

Last weekend members of Girl Scout Troop 66 of the Bay-Waveland area did a good cleaning of Sears Avenue, Waveland and also at the ballpark.

We need more groups like the scouts and others to tackle just about every street in our county, as litter seems to be everywhere.

Seeing others caring may be a way to help stop some of those who are careless about litter.

The members of the Waveland Civic Association could not have asked for better weather on Saturday for the annual St. Patrick's Day parade.

The beautiful weather helped bring out the large crowds to view the annual parade through the streets of Waveland.

Everyone seemed to have had a good time at the big parade.

Don't forget the St. Patrick's Day Block party and parade scheduled this afternoon in Bay St. Louis.

Entertainment is to begin at 1 p.m. in the Municipal Parking Lot with Speedo & Rocket 88's.

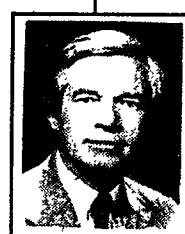

There are several folks, the ones able to take the gnats, getting their garden plots ready for spring planting.

The way the weather has been this year makes it hard to tell whether we will have another frost this season.

It may be a good idea to get the soil ready and wait a few more weeks before planting tender vegetables.

"The boss is leaving and we want to give him a little momentum."

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Sen. Cochran sponsoring bill for technical education grants

Senator Thad Cochran is sponsoring legislation to provide grants for technical education programs at the secondary and college levels.

Entitled the "Tech-Prep Education Act," the bill seeks to help encourage a comprehensive, coordinated effort by educational systems in the field of vocational and technical training.

"The workforce of tomorrow will require increased levels of skill and proficiency in mathematics, science and communications," Senator Cochran said as the bill was introduced. "We must provide technical education of higher quality if we are to meet that need."

The "Tech-Prep Act" would provide planning and demonstration grants to local educational agencies and community colleges for the development and operation of four-year technical preparation education programs leading to an associate degree.

Secondary schools and community colleges would work together to offer students a comprehensive four-year curriculum designed to prepare them to enter the technical workforce. There would also be joint training of teachers, and counselors would be trained in effective recruiting techniques.

Cochran, a member of the Senate's Subcommittee on Education, pointed out that over one million young people drop out of school each year, and may wind up on the welfare rolls.

"Tech-Prep gives us a better chance to prepare our students for a different kind of future. It will encourage them to stay in school."

Cochran said he had talked with a number of vocational educators in Mississippi who favor such an approach.

Speaking to a national education group in New Orleans last week, the Senator described the President's proposals for education as "exciting and innovative."

Senator Cochran, a member of two Senate panels dealing with education, said, "If Congress will support his initiatives, we will see progress in education reform."

"The President is challenging every citizen to get involved in the education effort. I think it's about time we had this kind of national emphasis on education."

The Senator told the 73rd annual convention of the National Association of Secondary School Principals that "rewards for excellence in teaching and school management are among the new national programs being proposed."

Another one is a National Science Scholar program to give college scholarships to high school seniors who excel in math and science."

Senator Cochran said, "Grants for educational innovation and a program for special experts in the classroom are also among the Bush administration proposals."

Legislators' power should not be all-encompassing

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Tom Jefferson gave us some good advice -- advice that Mississippians will want to take to heart.

Consider the actions of the Legislature a few days ago. A one-paragraph change in the law moved through a House committee, through a Senate committee, and onto the Senate calendar. Then somebody noticed it.

The one-paragraph change provided that any legislator could call upon the state auditor to audit operations of any non-profit organization receiving public funds.

Sounds harmless enough; even sounds reasonable and, perhaps, responsible -- until you read the language carefully.

Under the bill, any legislator, for any reason, could call upon the auditor to examine the total operations of any nonprofit operation receiving public funds. The examination was not limited to the use of public funds.

Consider the witchhunts this "harmless" legislation could invite:

"Investigation" of any local chamber of commerce or economic development foundation using any public funds if a legislator didn't like the way things were going.

"Investigation" of any nonprofit civic organization receiving contributions from city or county governments for any community improvement projects if a legislator didn't agree with the project.

"Investigation" of any civic club which receives even a minimum civic project contribution from a local government if a legislator didn't like the club.

Add your own civic projects and organizations to the list. Just be careful; don't upset any legislator. He could bring the full force of the state auditor down upon your organization.

Somebody's vigilance has led to an amended version of the bill.

Remember well Tom's good advice.

Reader urges support for PRC To-Tech Center

To the Editor:
I recently signed one of the petitions that are circulating about the vo-tech center.

I also want to urge other interested people in Hancock County to "Support Your Vo-Tech Center."

Call your Board of Supervi-

We have a fine vocational center and it's certainly worth speaking up for.

Spanish Acres residents tired of stray dogs, garbage

To the Editor:
One more time the issue of dogs running free and garbage everywhere must be addressed.

It seems that the department heads responsible for this public nuisance are derelict in their duty.

Spanish Acres has become the newest city dump site of Hancock County.

It's baffling that the dog owners (and they know who they are) don't seem to think that the leash laws pertain to them. Why can't our city officials get off their duffs and correct this public eyesore?

This problem is not just an ugly inconvenience, it has become a traffic hazard also. Cars dodging garbage are going to hit someone soon. To those responsible in the correcting this, we say—Help!

HC Humane Society issues plea for monetary assistance

To the Editor:

Last Sunday at the Humane Society's Board of Directors meeting, Julie Brown, our treasurer, stood up with a shaft of papers in her hand and said, "Do you all realize how much money we have spent on emergencies so far this month?"

I said, "Yes, but don't worry because I am going to make another special plea in the Letters to the Editor of the Sea Coast Echo."

"Well, you'd better do it fast," Julie said, "because we are way over budget right now." So here it is:

A ten-week old black shepherd-mix puppy strolled out onto Hwy. 603. A lady visitor from New Orleans did not see the tiny puppy until her car had run over it, cutting both legs—the right foreleg hanging on by a thread.

She stayed with the puppy rendering comfort while two men who saw the accident ran to a telephone to call the sheriff's department.

Our cruelty investigator, Officer Harold Heine and Audrey, his wife and companion, hurried to the scene. Harold called me on the phone to see what action he should take. We found out which veterinarian was on emergency call—it was on a Sunday—and after arranging that the Humane Society would be responsible for the bill, Dr. Sandra Robertson said that she would meet Officer Heine at her Diamondhead Animal Hospital.

Dr. Robertson stabilized the pup but in the morning had to remove the right foreleg from the shoulder. Even though Dr. Robertson has given the Humane Society a discounted bill, we still had to pay a considerable amount.

A Humane Society member is devotedly nursing the puppy into recovery in her home at this time.

Since last Sunday we have had two other dogs injured with broken bones in car accidents and one dog that began to hemorrhage after surgery.

Because the owners of these dogs needed assistance in paying, the Humane Society has given it. We ask the people whom we help to pay us back if and when they can.

Some do and some don't, however, our business is only to help the animals in crisis. So I beg you: Help us to help them. Please send money earmarked for our emergency fund. Every dollar helps and we can only do as much as your contributions permit us. Please give now.

Dear Editor:
What a great party, the Irish Ball!

I understand a gentleman named Lawrence Freeman is president of this great organization. We applaud his great taste and admire all the fine gentlemen who worked behind the Former college coach praises St. Stanislaus Hall of Fame

Dear Editor,
Last Saturday evening, Feb. 25, my wife and I attended the St. Stanislaus Hall of Fame Induction Banquet.

We have attended numerous Hall of Fame gatherings, including those held at universities and at the state level; and I have even attended some on a national level, at the National Football Foundation Collegiate Hall of Fame banquet in New York City.

Believe me when I say that the ceremonies held last week at St. Stanislaus ranked right up there with the best.

Brother Aquin Gauthier, as master of ceremonies, gave a tribute to the inductees that was second to none. The Brothers of the Sacred Heart served as gracious hosts to all the guests.

The Hall of Fame evening was one of class and dignity. Congratulations to all at St. Stanislaus for an outstanding job.

Sincerely,

Letters column offers readers the chance to 'say it themselves'

Dear Editor:
Apparently your column entitled "Letters to the Editor" is growing in popularity.

I have had several people phone and make suggestions for such letters. My reply has always been similar to Friscilla's suggestion to John Alden: "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?"

I did, however, read an excellent article that would be most appropriate. Too unfortunate the author is not here to sign it.

Written by Abraham Lincoln who died in 1865, I quote:

You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.

You cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer. You cannot encourage the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn. You cannot build character by taking away man's initiative and independence. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

Lincoln's homespun truths would, in my opinion, make an excellent letter to the editor.

Sincerely,
Joe Pilet

John C. Stennis Visitors Center registers 10,000 increase in 1988

More than 106,000 visitors from across the nation and the world registered at the John C. Stennis Space Center Visitors Center in Hancock County during 1988, and officials with the Visitors Center are hoping the number will increase even greater in the new year.

According to Alan Auter, manager of the Visitors Center, a total 106,331 visitors toured the Stennis Space Center last year. That total is 10,000 over the number of visitors in 1987.

"We are pleased at the increase in visitors to our center last year and hope to increase the number of visitors in 1989," Auter said.

Through the Stennis Center's visitor program, guests to the Stennis Center are given a unique opportunity to see one of America's national assets. The Stennis Space Center is the focal point of the nation's large liquid-fueled propulsion test capability, which includes developing, testing and accepting for flight all Space Shuttle main engines.

The center is unique in that it is host to numerous federal and state agencies involved in scientific programs of national and international importance.

The Stennis Space Center gained additional attention during 1988 when President Ronald Reagan signed an executive order in May 1988 renaming the National Space Technology Laboratories after retiring U.S. Senator John C. Stennis of Mississippi.

Several new exhibits added to the Visitors Center recently include an exhibit devoted to Sen. Stennis' life and his contributions to Mississippi and America.

"An exhibit that is very special to us is the John C. Stennis exhibit, which depicts the close association the senator has had with this center since its very inception some 25 years ago," said Mack Herring, NASA public affairs officer at the Stennis Space Center.

"The Stennis exhibit was designed to be an inspiration to young people who desire to make contributions in public service to our state and nation,"

USM Gulf Park Dean's List told

The Dean's List at the University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Park and Jackson County campuses has been released for the 1988 winter term and a number of local scholars are included.

Bay St. Louis: Betty Sims Fields, Paul Anthony Grego, Jyl Ann Darte Hedrick, Rodney Philip Keel, Lourdes Anderson Monti, Larry Calvin Parent, Louise LaForce Roberson and Annette Beresfor Schmidt.

Waveland: Mark Peter Smith, Ann Browning Wainwright and John Edward Zimmerman.

Herring said. According to officials with the State Department of Tourism, the Stennis Visitors Center is one of the most popular attractions in the state.

Additional exhibits include an F-1 engine which powered the first stage of the Saturn V rocket during the Apollo program, and a 68½-foot Jupiter-C rocket, sister ship to the vehicle that carried Explorer 1, America's first satellite into orbit in 1958. The F-1 is the fourth rocket engine on display at the center.

Currently, J-2 and H-1 engines, also used during the Saturn program, along with a Space Shuttle main engine, are on display.

The center's Hall of Achievements highlights space travel history up to the Space Shuttle and Space Station programs. Exhibits also represent many of the federal and state agency missions conducted at the Stennis Space Center.

Southern Poetry Association honors contest winners

Two local poets have won first and fourth place honors in the 'Diamonds and Dewdrops' contest sponsored by the Southern Poetry Association, located in this area.

First place winner was Louise Rogers of Long Beach for her poem 'Legacy of the Land.' Teresa Miles of Gulfport won first place for 'Autumn Spirit.'

Other winners were Dr. H. Ray Nail of Brandon, second place, and the third place winner was Thomas Lynn of Lawrenceville, Ga.

Announcement of the winners was made at a poetry-reading held at the Diamondhead Community Center with the Diamondhead Art Association as host.

The top ten poems from the contest were read at the meeting by SPA members Vermont Smith and Suzanne Jacques. Teresa Miles chose to read her own winning poem.

Members of the association from Pascagoula, Eunice Barnes, Nina Mason, Vencie Ros and Myrtle Anna Brown read poems from their recently published anthology, 'Five South Mississippi Poets.'

Hostesses for the meeting, Dorothy Booth, Charlotte Reshaw and Genevieve Longnecker, read selections of their own poetry. All poets present were invited to read from their works.

The Southern Poetry Association was founded in 1986 to encourage the enjoyment of poetry and to furnish an outlet for poets, young and old, from all walks of life.

Members are encouraged to share their skills and talents when asked to teach, critique and otherwise help lovers of poetry and to spread an appreciation of the art.

Members are not only Southerners. Some are from as far away as Washington State.

Advisory board members of the SPA are Dr. H. Ray Nail of Brandon, William Simpson of Fort Valley, Ga., Jessica Freeman of Baton Rouge, La. and Carl Danna of Pass Christian. Mildred Klyce of Pass Christian is editor.

Southern Poetry Association regularly publishes anthologies of poems of merit received by them.

The next anthology, 'Voices of the South,' will go to press in April and will be available shortly after that date.

SPA announces its annual 'Voices of the South' Contest.

Free information on the mammography procedure and classes on BSE, taught by a trained nurse, are offered in this session. The Breast Diagnostic Center at SMH offers routine baseline mammograms for $59 (includes Radiologist's Professional Fee). THIS EDUCATION IS A MUST FOR WOMEN OF ALL AGES.

Changes expected in boat ramp plan

BY DENA B' NETTE

A boat ramp project for the Jourdan River Shores subdivision will have to be redesigned because additional property could not be acquired.

Hancock County Beat Five Supervisor Michael Ladner said the county had originally planned to acquire a lot next to the existing boat launch site to use as a parking area.

According to Ladner, the original plan called for improvement of the existing launch at the end of Comanche Street, construction of a small pier and picnic ground, and addition of a parking area.

The original facility is owned by the county but had to be closed in 1981.

Board Attorney Gerald Gex is researching the matter because the project is being funded with a $30,000 grant and any design modifications will have to comply with grant specifications.

David Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission, which handled the grant application, and County Engineer Larry Seal will be involved in the redesigning phase.

Some of the residents of Jourdan River Shores attended this week's board of supervisors' meeting to ask that the design be modified anyway.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shaw, Penny Crawford and Arthur Lienwebber attended the meeting to state their objections to including a picnic area in the design.

Shaw explained that they have no objections to having the boat ramp improved and would not mind if it were widened to accommodate larger boats.

The picnic ground is the major objection, Shaw said, because he feels locating such a park at the end of Comanche Street would aggravate already existing problems with boaters who use objectionable language, drink publicly, litter the area and create a noise problem.

In addition, placing the park on a lot that was designated for residential use is, as far as Shaw can tell, a violation of subdivision covenants. However, that question was nullified when the lot adjacent to the county's property could not be acquired.

They object to the pier for the same reasons.

The residents contended that the $2 fee at McLeod Park creates an incentive for people to abuse free-admission facilities and objected to making the Jourdan River Shores facility "so attractive that everybody and his brother will come."

A suggested alternative location for the picnic area is near the clubhouse at the entrance to the subdivision, but building a park at another location may not be compatible with grant specifications.

The four also said they would have come to the board sooner had they heard about the project earlier. Shaw said he read about it in a notice published in a local newspaper, and Crawford complained that the subdivision newsletter had never mentioned the matter.

Shaw felt that the property owners should have been polled, or that some kind of special meeting about it should have been called.

Ladner said reducing the size of the dock and doubling the size of the ramp might be the best way to solve the problem, with the area originally planned for the park to be set up for parking, but could not make a commitment on the modifications until any grant eligibility problems have been addressed.

Registration hours extended for Bay St. Louis voters

BY D.C. HARVILL

In an attempt to improve voter turn-out and to make the voting process as easy as possible, Bay St. Louis has extended the hours in which residents can register to vote in the May election.

As usual, registrations will be accepted during regular City Hall working hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday thru Friday. But on the following dates the hours will be extended to 7 p.m.:
—Monday, March 13.

—Wednesday, March 15.
—Monday, March 20.
—Wednesday, March 22.
—The entire week of March 27 to 31.

City Hall also will be open for registration two Saturdays, March 18 and April 1, until noon.

Noon on April 1 is the deadline for registering to vote in the May 2 primary.

Residents who need to move their registration from one precinct to another may do so during any of the listed hours, according to Deputy City Clerk Mike Cuevas.

"We want to make going to vote as easy as we can, and we don't want to complicate the election by having a high number of affidavit votes," said Cuevas.

Three additional people have been deputized to register voters to help minimize the amount of time involved, according to Cuevas.

No identification is required to register, she said. Absentee ballots for the May 2 primary may be picked up after April 3.

"In the last election we had about a 75 percent voter turn-out, we want to have that kind of turn out again, Cuevas said.

In the May election, Bay St. Louis will be selecting city council members and a new mayor.

To date, only two candidates have announced for the mayoral position, City Clerk Edward Favre and former mayor Larry J. Bennett.

Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. recently announced that he will not seek re-election.

KEY CLUB MEMBERS—St. Stanislaus High School Key Club members will join the Princess Shoppe Teen Board Tuesday, March 14 in presenting a spring style show at 7:30 p.m. at the Brother Peter Memorial Gym at St. Stanislaus. Men's fashions will be provided by Anthony's Mens Wear. From left are Sammy Russo, Mickey Lagasse and Matthew Richmond. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Post 58 fire department to start operations

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department in Standard has gotten a slower start than originally anticipated, but service is expected to be available soon.

Charles Haas, chief of the department, said there are still a few things left to do—a radio problem has to be solved, an engine on a water truck persists in being difficult and more volunteer help will always be needed.

Each little problem is being solved as soon as possible, and "We expect to become operable any day now," Haas said.

The Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department is the last volunteer fire department that will be chartered in Hancock County. The service area it will cover was the last one without some type of fire protection.

Two or three attempts to start departments in Standard failed for various reasons, but this one will survive. New departments are placed on a year's probation by the state, and that probation is scheduled to end in April.

After the probationary period is over, fire departments can start receiving public funds from insurance rebates and other revenues. Insurance premiums for residents go down, with the amount depending on the individual carrier, after the department receives a rating from the state.

"We'll be able to do a lot more when the probation is over," the chief said.

Haas added that the rating will be Class 10 once it is received, which is the lowest available but the best his department can get with the equipment it has and the lack of a water system in the service area.

The 17 firefighters have attended a training session sponsored by the Leetown Volunteer Fire Department and some of them are attending a State Fire Academy school, part of which is being taught at Waveland Fire Department and part at the academy in Jackson, this week.

So far, firefighters include Georgia C. Haas, Frank M. Delsied, Bryan M. Sherwin, Deborah L. Sherwin, Mark Manual, Joe Constance, Joey Seal, Melissa Ladner, Ronald Shaw, Johnny LeBo, Earl Ainsworth Jr., Tracy Ainsworth, Glenda Roberts, Clifton Malley, Deron J. Cuevas, Robert Gervais and Darfas Martin.

Officers in addition to Haas are Randolph Nécaise, president; George Manuel, vice president; Deborah Sherwin, secretary; and Larry Wall, treasurer.

Haas said the department is becoming part of the county's mutual aid agreement, in which the departments assist each other at fire scenes in adjacent territories and allow each other's firefighters to participate in training sessions.

The department is also part of a five-year plan being implemented by Hancock County Fire Service Coordinator Jay Marsh. The plan is designed to provide the entire county with fire protection.

Until next month, however, the Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department must survive on the generosity of its friends and the support of the public.

One of the biggest supporters has been American Legion Post 58, which provided a site and a 40-by-120-foot building for a fire station on Highway 603.

The Legion post members, currently commanded by Hilbert Deschamp, has provided so much assistance that the volunteers named the fire department in their honor.

"We feel fortunate in having them sponsor us like this," Haas said.

Deschamp helped with the charter application last summer, and the post home has provided a meeting place for the fire department because the interior of the station is not yet finished.

In addition, the post has helped the department obtain some used trucks.

Public support is an important factor in the growth of the department, which Haas said will take about two years to catch up with others in the area as far as equipment is concerned. A couple of trucks have been donated, but more bunker gear and some breathing apparatus still must be acquired.

About 500 families live in the service area and 180 are already members of the department. Anyone else who would like to join or provide assistance to the department should call Haas at 255-3653. Dues are only $25 a year but Haas said they can be paid in six-month installments.

Meetings are the first Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at the American Legion Post 58 home.

"The most important thing for people to remember is that it is a volunteer fire department. We can't provide the same service as a paid fire department but we're going to do our best to be the best in the county," Haas said.

"We want it to be safe for my firefighters as well as a service to the public...volunteer firefighters aren't even covered by insurance, so we can't ask them to risk their lives."

"During the next few months, people are going to be seeing a lot of changes in this fire department," the chief said, explaining that more training will be arranged and hopefully, more equipment and volunteers will be acquired.

"Most people don't realize just how much it takes."

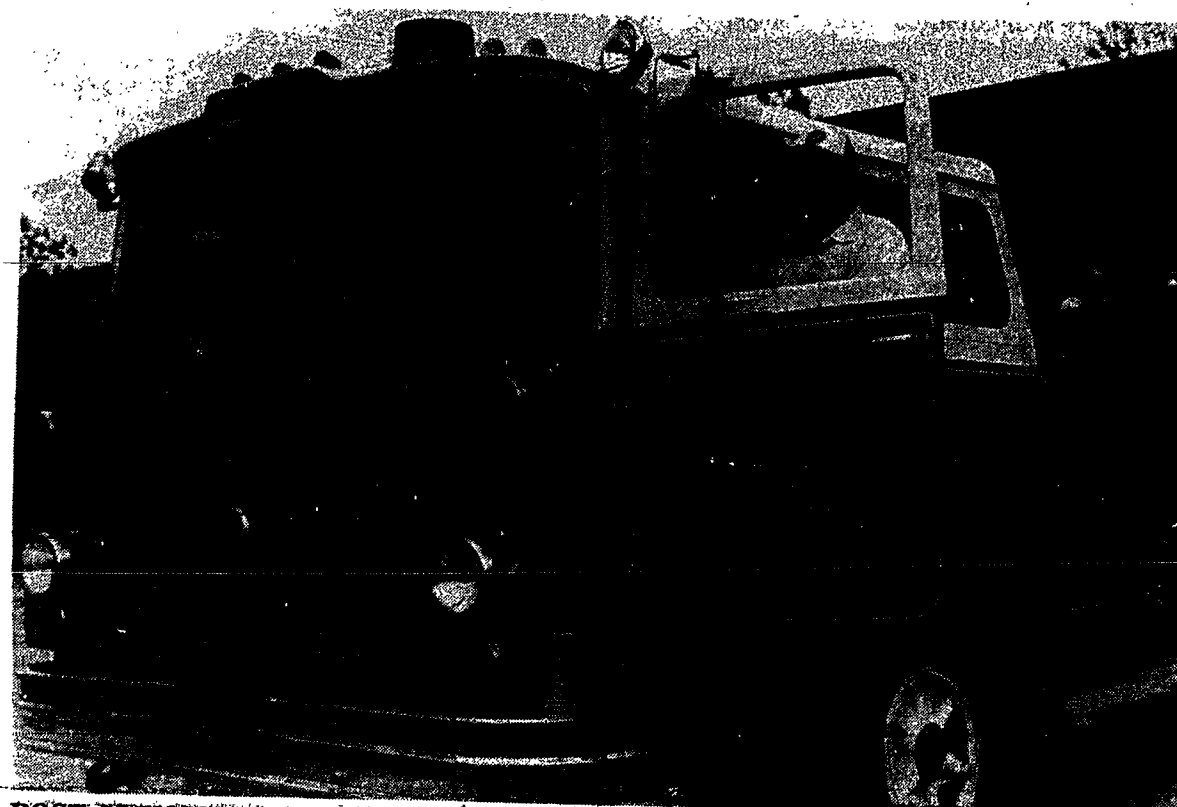

"Like I said, a lot of people have been real good on backing us but we still need the help of others, more people involved."

He said setbacks in getting started have worried him, but "We're just asking people for a little more patience, a little more time."

The new department will be dispatched through Diamondhead Fire Department until the enhanced 911 emergency system becomes effective and a dispatch point is set up for that system.

The Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department's service area's south boundary is slightly below Rocky Hill Road, the southeastern boundary is Bell Creek Road and the northern border is the Pearl River County line. The remaining boundaries are the Harrison County line and Dummyline Road about a mile from Highway 603.

POST 58 VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT Chief Charles Haas shows off a surplus pumper truck obtained from the Biloxi Fire Department. Haas said the department also a used water truck that once was a Civil Defense vehicle and is planning to obtain an old dump truck that can be modified for use as a tanker. CES to sponsor historical sailing vessel, the Elissa

Towering 100 feet over the Galveston waterfront, the three masts of the iron barque Elissa are exclamation marks punctuating not only the triumph of a graceful sailing ship over the scrapper's torch, but the long and colorful history of the city she now calls home.

Elissa, built in Scotland in 1877, was at the end of a remarkably long career at sea when the Galveston Historical Foundation found her rusting in a Greek scrapyard in 1974, and set out to restore her.

The restoration—which ultimately took eight years and cost nearly $5 million—brought to Galveston a living connection with her maritime past.

Galveston in the Age of Sail was Texas' busiest and most vital port, and the banking and mercantile houses which lined The Strand, Galveston's bustling commercial avenue, were the financial nerve centers of America's southwestern expansion.

Across these docks flowed the trade that was the lifeblood of a growing nation. Graceful square-riggers carried cotton, hides, sugar, molasses and other agricultural products from young and prosperous Texas to the far-flung corners of the world, and brought in the raw materials, manufactured goods and immigrants for America's burgeoning growth.

Elissa herself was among those proud ships, bringing to Galveston a cargo of bananas in 1883, and calling once again in 1886.

Both Elissa and Galveston fell on lean times after the turn of the 20th century, with Elissa going through a succession of owners who reduced and ultimately eliminated her graceful rig. The 1900 hurricane and subsequent completion of the ship channel to Houston wiped out Galveston's commercial leadership.

Today, though, thanks to the efforts of the Galveston Historical Foundation and a community-wide sense of Galveston's important role in America's history, the Victorian grandeur of The Strand's commercial hub, as well as the ornate homes built by yesteryear's captains of business and industry, have been preserved; their beauty draws thousands of visitors to the island every year.

And at Pier 21, Elissa rides proudly at her moorings, restored true to form and function, and lovingly maintained by more than 100 volunteers from Galveston and surrounding cities.

Far more than a static, "hands off, don't touch" museum piece, Elissa is a living reminder of the graceful era of sail, taking to the waves regularly to keep alive not only the artifact, but also the art, of square-rigger sailing.

Underway, with her 19 sails "drawing full-and-by" and the wind thrumming in her rigging, Elissa delights observers with a panoply of billowing canvas rarely seen in these days of steam and diesel.

With the Lone Star flag fluttering proudly at her main truck, Elissa has represented Galveston and Texas in waters far beyond her little island homeport.

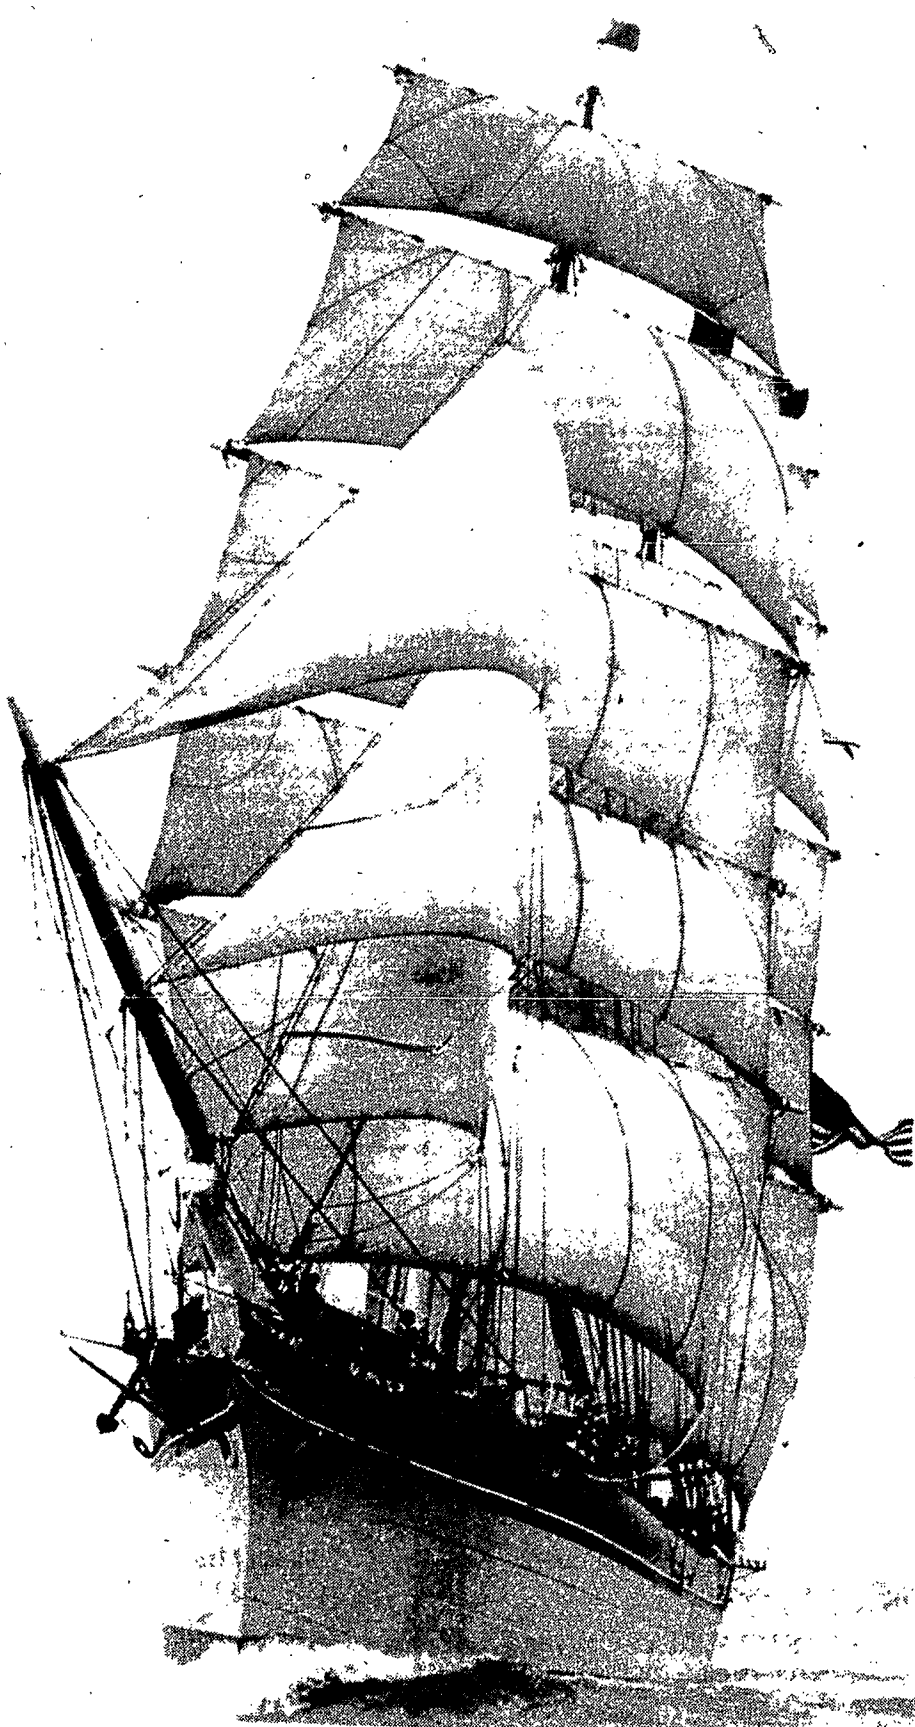

She was the "belle of the ball" at the 1986 Parade of Sail in New York Harbor celebrating the Statue of Liberty's Centennial, and had the distinction of being the only ship there to have visited New York before Lady Liberty herself had arrived.

On that trip, Elissa carried Galveston's message of history and its preservation to ports of call as diverse as Mystic, Conn.; Washington D.C.; Annapolis, Md.; Baltimore Md.; Miami, Fla.; and Charleston, S.C.

During other offshore passages, Elissa has visited Corpus Christi, Texas, in 1985; Beaumont, Texas and Biloxi, in 1987; and will call at a number of Gulf Coast ports during the upcoming 1989 "Texas Proud" tour.

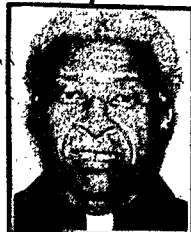

At her home pier, Elissa offers interpretive displays on seafaring "before the mast," as well as a movie detailing the history and the restoration of both Galveston and Elissa. Young sailors can take the helm of the play ship Sea Child, and a variety of nautical gifts and books is available at the Sail Loft gift shop.

Coast Episcopal Schools will sponsor a one-week Gulfport stay of the Elissa May 6-13. Proceeds will benefit the schools.

Reflections
On LifeBy Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

You are my theophany

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

We humans have an obsession with seeing, touching and hearing the people whom we love.

The more vital and intimate the person is in our life, the more we want to be near, to see, to hear and to touch that person as much and as often as possible.

It is no surprise at all, then, that we are so inquisitive about God. Although God is supposedly the most vital, the most intimate, the most critical Being in our life, we cannot see, nor hear, nor touch, nor physically communicate with this marvelous Being whom we call Love, Goodness, Life itself.

There is no human being with the slightest trace of faith in God who would not like to get some kind of a peek at God. We know that this is impossible, since God is a completely spiritual being.

Yet, we persist in our desire, and we sometimes pursue what seems to be second best, inquiring into reputed apparitions.

"No one has ever seen God. It is God the only Son, ever at the Father's side, who has revealed him." (John 1:18)

Since that first Christmas day in the year zero A.D., we humans have a way of seeing God through Jesus, the Image of the eternal Father.

Through the metaphor of the vine and the branches, Jesus identifies himself with each of us to the point where he assures us that we touch him, affect him through one another.

And so it has come to be that, through Jesus, we are the theophany, the appearance of God to one another.

Indeed, I have the reassurance that, in God's material absence, you are my theophany, you are tied in with the most sacred experiences which I shall have in my lifetime.

I am sure that I know God, because I knew my father for the greater part of my first 50 years of life. Louis was my theophany, because I came to know in him the qualities which I surely would want to find and experience in God.

In numerous ways, I have seen God in the theophanies which I encounter every day of my life: the women and men hard at work in the streets or upon and within countless buildings; the little old ladies telling their beads or otherwise wrapped in prayer; aging men bowing deeply or tipping their hats as they pass a church; someone helping the blind to cross a street.

You are my theophany whenever you prove to be an angel, one of God's messengers, in my life. I know that God sent you to me to enlighten my way, to ease my path, to help me through problems.

I am sure that I hear God, for I have heard the voice of my mother as she nurtured me, as she admonished and encouraged me to become a wholesome human being, as she conversed and sang, as she prayed both at home and in church, as she worked to make a living.

She is my theophany together with countless other mothers who participate so intimately in God's own creative activities, bringing life into the world, and developing it to the full.

I am sure that I see God, for I see you often doing your work in order to be able to take care of your family. You are my theophany, for I see you giving quality time to your loved ones, seeing to their needs and showing them all forms of love.

You are my theophany, because I see you forgiving everyone, even your enemies, in the spirit of the Lord Jesus, and I see you reconciling and healing the wayward, the bruised and the hurting.

Yes, you are my theophany, because God has chosen you to be a special vessel of salvation in my life, showing forth in yourself all that our brother Jesus commanded us to think, say and do.

Louis.

In 1958, Father Powell was called to Rome to serve as English secretary to the Superior General of his Order.

Following a one-year tour in Ghana, West Africa, he was recalled to the United States in 1962 to assume the pastorate of the Church of St. Paul the Apostle in Baton Rouge, La.

While in Baton Rouge, he became the first black and the first priest to become president of the Baton Rouge area Ministerial Association, while serving the Diocese of Baton Rouge as coordinator of ecumenical affairs.

In 1969, Father Powell was recalled to Rome and the Vatican as the vice-rector of St. Peter's Pontifical College.

In 1972, John Cardinal Krol, Archbishop of Philadelphia, invited him to Philadelphia as executive director of CORDUM (Committee on Research and Development of Urban Ministry).

From 1975 to 1980, Father Powell served successively the Diocese of Savannah, the Archdiocese of Washington in a pastoral capacity, and Holy Rosary Institute in Lafayette, Ind. as its director.

Father Powell was transferred in 1980 from the eastern province of his order to the northern province, as pastor of St. Rita's Church in Indianapolis, Ind.

Realizing the cultural need to incorporate the black religious experience into the Roman Catholic Liturgy, he organized the Emmaus Gospel Choir of Indianapolis. He also was a member of the Indianapolis Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance.

In December of 1983, Father Powell returned to Rome for the third time to study theology and anthropology and related sciences.

He returned to the United States in July, 1984 as associate pastor of Our Lady of the Gardens Church in the southeast section of Chicago.

Father Powell makes use of his talents in writing and in languages to further the manifestation of the Kingdom of God on earth and in mankind's history.

He is now in residence at St. Augustine Seminary, Bay St. Louis.

USM Forum to present
Christian fundamentalism lecture on March 21

A well-known professor of religion and authority on Christian fundamentalism will be the featured speaker at the next University of Southern Mississippi University Forum lecture March 21.

Dr. Mark C. Taylor—William R. Keenan Jr. professor of religion, and director of the Center for the Humanities and Social Sciences at Williams College—will present "Understanding Christian Fundamentalism" at 7 p.m. in Bennett Auditorium on the USM campus.

Taylor, author, lecturer and world authority on the 19th century Danish philosopher and theologian Soren Kierkegaard, has been on the forefront of developing trends in contemporary theology.

His most recent work has adapted the methods and insights of literary criticism and especially deconstruction to the understanding of religion.

"Altarity," Taylor's latest book, challenges with its multifaceted approach to what it means to be religious in America today. Perhaps his best-known book, "Deconstruction in Context: Literature and Philosophy," won Choice Magazine's outstanding book award for 1988.

Taylor's work has been recognized and encouraged through grants and fellowships from the Fulbright Foundation, the National Humanities Center and the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation.

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Annual Community Day of Prayer will be held at 10 a.m. on Friday, Mar. 17 at St. Augustine's Seminary Chapel, Ulman Avenue Bay St. Louis.

The interdenominational service which has grown over the years and hosted by various churches will be sponsored by St. Augustine's Seminary Community.

Local pastors and members of various community churches will participate in the hour-long program. Music will be provided by the Hancock County Senior Citizens Choir.

The ecumenical service originated 14 years ago by the United Women of the Main

The public is invited to attend and participate in this spring service and to pray in a united expression of faith and thanksgiving for the community needs.

Serving as committee members this year are, Mrs. David McDonald, Mrs. Henry A. Fry and Rev. William J. Kelley, SVD.

MentorMatch pairs students with businessmen, professionals

More than 50 students and 40 business professionals participated in MentorMatch '89, a pilot program established to provide high school juniors with an opportunity to get a realistic, up-close look at their chosen career.

The concept was to pair students with individuals in business in a mentoring-type relationship.

Students were selected from 300 applicants, throughout the three Coast counties.

Selection was based on the student's record of motivation, involvement in school clubs and community projects and academic success.

A MentorMatch Rally was held Jan. 28 to allow students and mentors an opportunity to meet and discuss options on their careers and how to prepare for it.

Guest motivational/informal speakers included Leon Long, WLOX; Dr. Joe Paul, USM; and Rex Kelly, Mississippi Power Company.

The second part of the program includes on-site visits by the student to the mentor's workplace.

MENTORMATCH PARTICIPANTS—Six local high school students were invited to join in a "career observation" project sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council.
